IMPORTANCE OF

The Mishna (Kesubos 39a) states that if a man became obligated under לאשה to marry a woman (after אונס or פתוי) but she is forbidden to him (e.g. a mamzeres), then the obligation does not apply. The Gemara asks why don't we say: עשה דוחה לא תעשה – that the mitzvah of לאשה to marry should overrule the prohibition? The Gemara answers that עשה דוחה לא תעשה only applies if there is no way to fulfill the mitzvah without violating the prohibition, such as performing a Bris Milah where there is a skin growth on the foreskin. However here, לאשה is only a mitzvah if the woman wants to marry him. If she releases him, there is no mitzvah. Such an עשה is not able to overrule a לא תעשה (Tos). Tosfos Yeshanim asks: If so, why does the Torah need a Posuk: איש אמו ואביו תיראו ואת שבתותי תשמורו? The עשה of Kibud Av could never overrule the לא תעשה of Shabbos or any other prohibition because a parent could release a child from obeying. As established above, such an עשה is not able to overrule a לא תעשה. Rabbeinu Ezra answers that in the case of a woman who releases the man from marrying her, once she does so, she cannot change her mind, so the mitzvah is gone forever. In the case of a parent however, the mitzvah continues to exist, and a child must obey the very next instruction, unless released again. Tosafos (Yevamos 5b) asks, does not the Gemara (Kidushin 31a) establish that a child, faced with conflicting demands from his father and mother, must obey the father, since both mother and child are obligated to honor the father? The same should apply here, since both father and child are obligated to honor Hashem's instructions, so why is a Posuk necessary? The Divrei Shaul suggests that without a Posuk, a child might conclude that if he was willing to be punished, he could choose to obey his father and do the aveirah, and then be punished for it. The Posuk is necessary to make clear that he does not have that choice.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK:

When would there be only seven Aliyos on Shabbos, and no Aliyah for Maftir?

ANSWER TO LAST WEEK:

(When would it be necessary to listen carefully to Chazoras HaShatz?)
The Shulchan Aruch (אור"ח 126) rules that if a Chazan becomes confused or is too weak to continue Chazoras HaShatz, a substitute takes over from the beginning of the brocho he was at. Ateres Zekainim says that לכתחילה the substitute should be one who had listened well to Chazoras HaShatz. Otherwise, some hold that he must start over from the beginning.

DIN'S CORNER:

One may not express thanks to one's lender for lending him, because of Ribis. One may not express such thanks in writing either. However, one may express appreciation by publicizing a Chesed that a lender did, even if the lender has pleasure from it, for to do so is itself a mitzvah. (Igros Moshe י"ד 1:80)

DID YOU KNOW THAT

The Mishna (Sanhedrin 52b) records a Machlokes over the proper method of beheading. The Rabanan say it is to be done with a sword. R' Yehudah maintains it must be with an axe, because execution by sword emulates the gentiles, which violates the Posuk: ובחקותיהם לא תלכו. The Maharik (88) developed the rules to define this Issur, which is applicable only if: 1) the gentiles do something irrational, where a Jew who does so is obviously emulating them; or 2) the gentiles do something which is flashy and immodest, unbefitting a Jew. The GRA (י"ד 178:7) disagrees, pointing out the implication from the above Gemara, that even when a gentile custom is rational (sword beheading) the Issur still applies. Igros Moshe (י"ד 1:81) replied to the question of whether wearing Western-style dress is considered copying the Goyim, with a clear - No, because the clothing is not manufactured for gentiles or with gentiles exclusively in mind - it is made for Jew and gentile alike. Even the GRA, who considers everything made for Goyim to be prohibited, would agree that Western-style clothing is not made for Goyim, and is therefore permitted. The question was raised regarding standing up to honor dead Israeli soldiers on Yom HaZikaron. Since the GRA considers any behavior, however admirable, to be prohibited as Chukas HaGoy if we would not have thought of it ourselves, then such a showing of honor should be prohibited. However, the Bnei Banim (2:30) points out that when gentiles show honor to dead soldiers, they impose such behavior on all their citizens, gentile and Jew alike, and do not distinguish between Jewish or gentile soldiers. Furthermore, rising to display honor is clearly described in the Torah, albeit for the elderly and Talmidei Chachomim. However, once the behavior is cited in the Torah, it is permitted in other situations, not specifically mentioned, without danger of Chukas HaGoy. This is apparent from the Gemara (Avodah Zara 11a) which permits the burning of a deceased king's personal items, despite the fact that pagans did this as well, because a Posuk indicates that such was the custom among Jewish kings. The Gemara then states, just as we may burn for kings, so too may we burn for a Nasi. Thus, although there is no Posuk for a Nasi, it is permitted. The same Heter would apply to rising, to show honor.

A Lesson Can Be Learned From:

An Agunah complained to the Beis HaLevi about her husband, who had disappeared. The Beis HaLevi asked her how he could help her. She replied: "Just tell me – is he alive?" The Beis HaLevi said Yes, he is alive. "Has he become a Meshumad (apostate)?" The Beis HaLevi replied that he had not. "Tell me only – will he return?" The Beis HaLevi said he would return. A short while later, the man returned home. The city of Brisk was amazed at the Beis HaLevi's miraculous prediction, but the Gaon was quick to explain that there was no miracle. "I said he was alive because he has a Chezkas Chaim, and we don't suspect death. I said he was not a Meshumad because he has a Chezkas Kashrus. If he's alive and not a Meshumad, why shouldn't he return?"
